

Stefano Hourmouzis Video for Online Roulette, Casino Gambling Demonstrates How to Win

A proven system for winning at online roulette and casino roulette has been developed by Australian alternative energy researcher and roulette consultant Stefano Hourmouzis. While roulette is considered by most to be a random and unpredictable game, experienced roulette players understand this is not so. Hourmouzis shows how in his new one hour video.

(PRWEB) May 17, 2006 -- Learning how to win at online roulette and casino gambling is not difficult, just ask Stefano Hourmouzis an Australian alternative energy researcher and roulette consultant who has developed and released a one hour video demonstration of what may very well be the world's most effective roulette system and strategy guide. His videos are downloadable from www.genuinewinner.com and www.roulettecomputers.com.

Not only does Stefano demonstrate approximately a +350 unit profit over an hour, an exact number hit rate of 1 in 21 is achieved which is even better than some roulette computers. The demonstration has sparked interest amongst roulette enthusiasts and casinos alike, raising questions of how his results were achieved. One might look at the possibility of a wheel bias, but no bias is apparent and his betting pattern is not consistent of exploiting such a bias. Furthermore, the wheel utilized in his demonstrations is of a modern design and level without a common ball drop point, eliminating the possibility of a dealer signature being used. Stefano even demonstrates a clear recovery from a losing streak to prove it's not just "luck." Was some other trick used, or is this the real thing?

While roulette is considered by most to be a random and unpredictable game, experienced roulette players understand it is in fact not random. Roulette can and is already being beaten by a number of methods including visual ballistics, roulette computers, bias analysis, and a variety of little-known wheel analysis methods. These methods are finding success both amongst players of online roulette and casino gambling. Stefano claims to have taken the known effective techniques one step further, greatly enhancing their effectiveness. In addition, he claims his energy research has led to new knowledge of predicting roulette that very few others have discovered - namely several types of patterns currently completely undetectable by any casino's pattern analysis software.

"Absolutely every wheel generates some kind of recursive pattern that can be relied upon to increase a player's chance of winning," Stefano says. "It is just a question of whether not a particular wheel's patterns are sufficiently defined to overcome the house edge. While my roulette system involves all the traditional known-effective techniques such as visual ballistics and standard wheel analysis, the core of my system is very different, and something only an energy researcher is likely to understand. If it weren't for my work in energy development, I wouldn't have discovered the patterns. Absolutely nothing in this universe is "random" - it's all cause and effect, and therefore nothing is without an element of predictability."

Can millions be won with Stefano's system? According to him, it has already been done. While he manages teams of players worldwide, Stefano also offers the development of custom variants to the public via his web site at www.genuinewinner.com/main.htm. He adds that the system is equally effective for online roulette and casino gambling.

The two types of Stefano Hourmouzis Roulette Systems:

1. Custom Variants - essentially a custom variant is a wheel analysis designed for full-time and professional roulette players. To develop custom variants, players send Stefano 300+ spins from specific wheels for analysis. To analyze these spins, Stefano utilizes his exclusive custom-made software to determine if a wheel exhibits up to nine different pattern types - two of which are known by casinos, while the other seven are not. The pattern analysis software has been developed exclusively by Stefano and will never be publicly released. As casinos are currently unaware of seven of the nine patterns, casinos do not know specifically if a wheel is beatable.

2. Primordial Variants - these versions are for the traveling player who does not have the time to collect spins for analysis. It enables the players themselves to detect and utilize 1 of the 9 pattern types that Stefano's custom variant software detects. Although it is approximately 1/10th as effective as custom variants, it is still a legitimate and long-term winning system.
